1. Introduction
The goal of this assignment is for you to learn and to present the details of a case study that you select from the current literature in Virtual Reality.

2. Case Study Selection
You may select your paper to review/present from the Springer journal on Virtual Reality. The papers are available on-line through the University of Kentucky’s subscription. The journal is located here: http://www.springerlink.com/content/1434-9957/. You must select a full paper from volumes 7-10 (approximately the past two years) as the case study about which you will make your presentation. This selection must be approved – please email Dr. Seales with your paper selection.

3. Presentation
Your presentation must last 15 minutes and must review the paper you have selected. There will be 5-10 minutes for questions at the end of your presentation. You are required to use powerpoint - bring your presentation, ready to go, on a portable USB “thumb” drive.

The presentation should address the following points:
- Paper/case overview and the primary intentions and goals of the work
- Context of the case – related work and specific placement of this case within that context
- Methods
- Results
- Analysis – your assessment of the quality of the work, along with open questions, things you did not understand or you felt were well-done or done poorly, etc.

Evaluation of the presentation will be done by your colleagues and by Dr. Seales and will judge your preparation, clarity in communicating the above points, adherence to guidelines (e.g., time constraints), and the quality and insight of your analysis.

4. Written Summary
You must prepare and submit a short essay (three pages maximum) that summarizes the content of your presentation. This essay must address the points above in clear succinct English. It is very important that you provide insightful analysis about the quality of the work represented in the case study in the context of what you have learned about the field of Virtual Reality this semester.

5. What to Turn In
You must submit via email your essay and powerpoint presentation material.
